Everyone cares!

How did they meet?

---

Our great love began in the fall of 2017, how else than on a bike that we both love.

We met for the first time only in passing - on a bicycle under Radyní. We must have caught each other's eye that time, because when we met for the second time on the bike near Šýahlav, we both remembered a nice smile from the past, exchanged a few words on the way to Kozel, where we sat in a teahouse.

The proposal happened in the same place, just 4 years and 2 covid lockdowns later.

And as you can see, we have a rainbow together.

A wedding in a castle?

But which one?

---

Why the castle in Nebílovy? Are you asking too?

Yes, we originally planned Kozel because we like it and it also reminds us of our first meeting place. But betrayal came. When we reserved the date, the castle administration informed us, of course, at the very end and just by the way, that it is possible that renovations will be taking place and that there will be scaffolding around the chapel on Kozle. Of course, with a billboard on which the chapel will be drawn. And they were a little surprised when we said no.

We kept looking and decided on Nebílovy. We like the landscape, and in the end even the raw building without plaster, which we were a little scared of at the beginning, got us.

The wedding ceremony takes place in the chapel of the castle in Nebílovy. Nebílovy is a small village about 16 km south of Pilsen. In addition to the long-standing orchard tradition, they are also known for their baroque castle, which was built in 1706-17 by rebuilding an arcaded castle built on the foundations of a Renaissance fortress by Count Adam Jindřich of Steinau.

The plans were drawn up by the Austrian imperial architect Johann Lukas von Hildebrandt, so it is not entirely surprising that its layout and floor plan resemble the Austrian castles in Aschach and Halbturm, the Vienna Belvedere residence and the Salzburg Mirabell.

The castle was then gradually owned by the ěernín and Valdštejn families, members of the local orchard cooperative, and since 1968 it has belonged to the state. This left enough scars on it, so it was not made available to the public until 1998.
